Introduction

What You Get

This plugin will allow you to easily automate your daily posts to your blog or WordPress site. The process couldn't be simpler.

The secret to auto-posting is to do one of the following three:

- Create your own unique articles, with content relevant to your blog or WordPress site. Make sure to group your articles into appropriate categories, which you create in WordPress > Posts > Categories. Since these are custom created articles, never before published, you should have no problems with search engines, like Google, penalizing your site for plagiarized material, which hurts your SEO rating.
- Pay a professional writer, or contractor, to create custom articles for you based on your site content. In this case, be certain to request new material, not anything that was previously posted to the Internet. Again group your articles into categories of material that is relevant to your blog or WordPress site.
- Buy articles in bulk, that again, are relevant to the content of your blog or WordPress site, and use a “randomizer” or “spinner” to alter the content of the articles just enough so that they appear to be unique. You can purchase these plugins or software packages online, or if you're lucky you might find one for free. When you use these methods to modify article content it's important to read the altered articles carefully to be certain there are no sentence structure mistakes, or grammatical errors, as well as making sure the sentences and paragraphs still make sense and are meaningful. This is less effective.

Auto Post Wiz WordPress plugin allows you to upload article content as text files (.txt) which are grouped into a Zip file (.zip) for uploading. The text filename becomes the article header, and be sure that the Zip file contains only text files, and is not grouped into directories or folders, as that can cause the plugin to assume the folder or directory name is another article, which would post as an “empty” article (no content).

Auto Post Wiz allows you to schedule how many articles you post, per category upload, per day or days, using whatever interval you decide. The posting(s) scheduled for a given day are randomized by time, so you never appear to be posting at the same time each day. And you also get to select which of your blog or site authors to assign the posting to.

We really believe you'll be blown away by this fantastic WordPress plugin!

Installing

Simply upload the plugin zip using the WP admin panel browser uploader and activate.

Alternatively

1. Unzip and save the extracted folder somewhere you can find it.
2. Use your FTP client (like FileZilla) to upload the folder to your /wp-content/plugins/ directory on your WordPress blog or website.
3. Login to your WordPress admin page and activate.

Upgrading

1. First BACK UP YOUR WORDPRESS DATABASE! We won't take any responsibility for your data, you have to look after it yourself.
2. Deactivate the existing version of the plugin.
3. Use your FTP client to delete the existing plugin.
4. Unzip the new version and save the extracted folder somewhere you can find it.
5. Use your FTP client to upload the newly extracted folder to your /wp-content/plugins/ directory on your WordPress blog or website OR use the new plugin uploader to install the upgrade.
6. Reactivate the plugin.

Trouble Shooting

If your blog or website displays with an error message when you activate the plugin or otherwise adversely affects your blog or website, then the first thing you should do is delete the plugin with your FTP client or using the delete function on the plugins page, and your blog or website will be restored to normal.

Usage

The first thing you should do is go to the "Auto Post Wiz" page in your admin panel.

Main Form

Parameter definition:

Select Topic – Which topics (categories) you want to publish your articles in.

Frequency – Amount of articles published per defined interval in days. Interval

– The number of intervals (in days) before each post will be published.

Starting Date – The date you want to start your auto-posting.

Select Author – Define the post author.

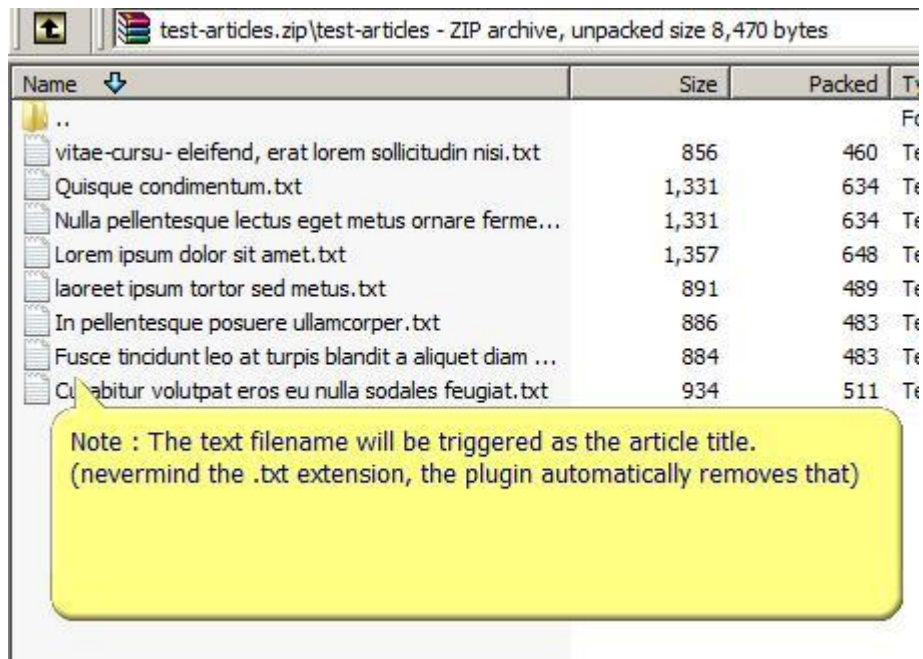

Articles – Requires a Zip (.zip) file, which contains articles in text file (.txt) format.

Example Form

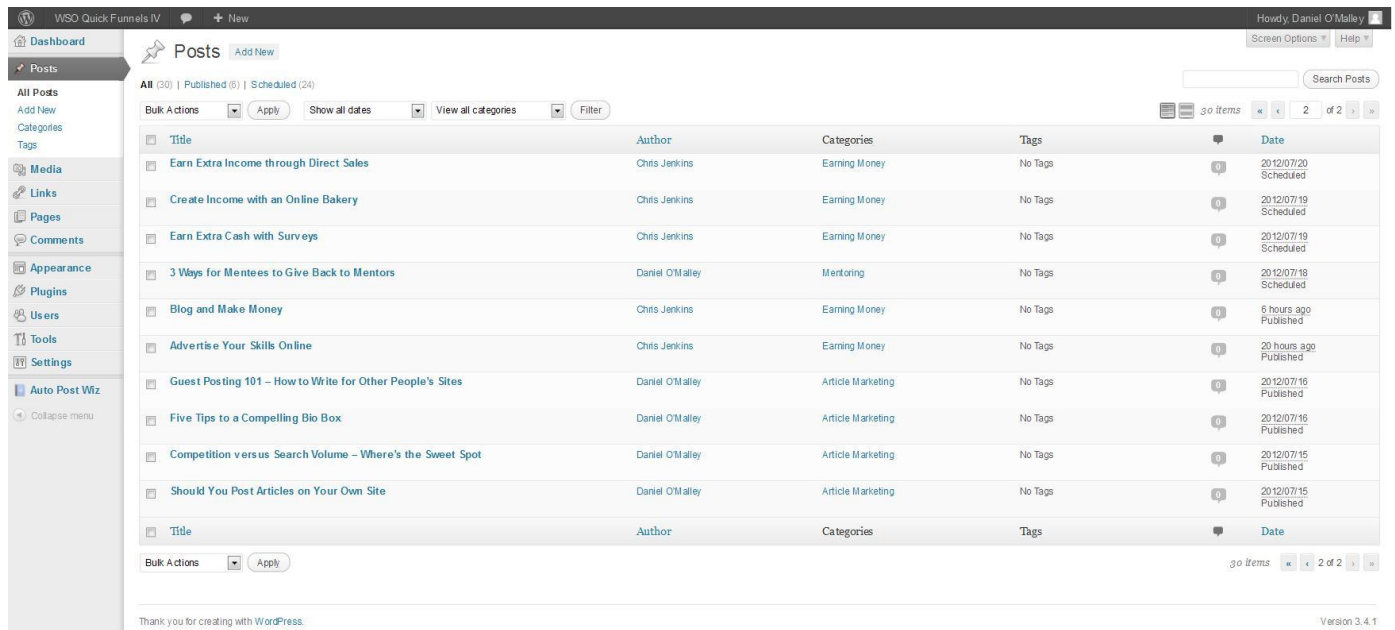

A screenshot of the 'Add new entry' form. It includes a document icon and the title 'Add new entry'. The form has several fields: 'Select Topic' (a multi-select dropdown with 'Health and Care', 'Hobbies', 'Lifestyle', and 'Technology' selected), 'Frequency' (a text input with '1' and a label '[Number of articles to be published per defined interval]'), 'Interval (days)' (a text input with '2'), 'Starting Date' (a date input with '07/10/2012'), 'Select Author' (a dropdown with 'admin' selected), and 'Articles (.zip file)' (a text input with 'C:\Program Files (x86)\A' and a 'Browse...' button, with a label '[articles should be saved on text files (.txt)]'). A 'Process Articles' button is at the bottom. A yellow callout bubble points to the 'Select Topic' field with the text: 'You can select multiple Topics or Post Categories here.'

In the above example, the uploaded articles will be posted under the selected categories, once (1) every 2 days starting July 10 until all articles are published. All the new posts will be created automatically for you.

Example Zip File

Posts

Your WordPress Post Manager page should look something like the image above, after you've finished scheduling and uploading your articles. Easy!

Other Notes

For ease of use, I'd suggest you try grouping your articles by category, then placing them in one Zip file for a single upload and schedule, or split them among several Zip files if you want the category of articles to use differing schedules.

If articles apply to more than one category, you can still select multiple categories when you upload the article Zip file with the plugin.

The filename of each article will be used as the title of the blog post. Extra spaces will be automatically removed from the title as well as hyphens (-) and _ (underscore) which will be turned into spaces.

All links found in the text file content will be automatically wrapped with HTML anchor tags .

If you have any revisions to the content or the title that you want to make, then you can do that simply via the WordPress Post Manager just as you would with any other post.

Hours and minutes on each publish-schedule are randomly created.

Conclusion

We hope you'll quickly come to appreciate how effective and easy Auto Post Wiz WordPress plugin is, and recommend it to your friends and colleagues as well. With our line of Wizard plugins we're doing our very best to make your work simpler and also help to make a much more effective use of your time.
